

20 Backyard and Rooftop Bars You Need to Hit Before Labor Day

Summer will be over before you know it, which means now's the time to kick your outdoor bar-hopping habits into high gear. Add these breezy, open-air spots to your must-visit list while the days are long and the nights are warm — we'll see you there.

Lookout Rooftop and Bar at The Envoy, Boston, MA: The Envoy is Boston's answer to the perfect hot-spot hotel. Not only do they have a year-round rooftop bar (Lookout) where even locals wait in lines to drink, but they also have chic rooms, a crazy talented chef (Tatiana Pairot Rosana) who heads up their Outlook restaurant, and unmatched views of the seaport neighborhood. Order the Bella Signora (Galliano Amaro, Campo Viejo Sparkling Rose) and Angro Mango (Lunazul Blanco, Patron Mango Lillet Blanc, fresh grapefruit juice) in the summer, and make your way back in the winter when they bring heated igloos up to the roof to drink in. Yes, seriously.
